About the Book

Rescuing the Children: The Story of the Kindertransport tells the story of ten thousand Jewish children who were rescued out of Nazi Europe and sent to safety in Britain just before the outbreak of World War II. Unlike most of their family members, these children (Kinder) survived the Holocaust. Their rescue shines a ray of light on this darkest of times.

About the Holocaust

The Holocaust was the state-sponsored persecution and murder of six million European Jews by the Nazi regime and its collaborators between 1933 and 1945. Of the six million put to death, 1.5 million were children. Source: US Holocaust Memorial Museum.

To learn more about the Holocaust and for teaching guidelines, please see the educator's section on the US Holocaust Memorial Museum website at www.ushmm.org/education/foreducators.

About the Kindertransport

To learn more about the Kindertransport, please see the website of the Kindertransport Association at www.kindertransport.org. You can also find additional listings for related books, DVDs, and websites in the “Note to Parents and Teachers” on pp. 56-57 of Rescuing the Children.

*Note to Teachers

There is no easy way to tell young people about the Holocaust. It is a topic that requires the discretion of educators who will know the best time and approach for discussing this sensitive subject.
Please see the following pages for suggested topics for discussion and activities.

Classroom Topics for Discussion and Activities

Use the following discussion topics and activities to accompany the book, Rescuing the Children: The Story of the Kindertransport, and to engage your students in thinking about and discussing important issues of discrimination, persecution, diversity, and compassion.

Many of the activities will be suitable for Language Arts (LA), Social Studies (SS), Social Responsibility (SR), Fine Arts (FA), or Math (M).

Suggested Reading: “Terror in Germany” and “Voices of the Children” pp. 8-11

Discussion Topics

Even though you live in a different time and place, you may have seen bullying or experienced discrimination yourself. How did it make you feel? How would you feel if you were Ruth, Ellen, or Joseph?

Activities

(LA) Using a dictionary, look up the meanings of the following words: discriminate, persecute, and anti-Semitism. Give examples that show the meaning of each word.

(SS) Ruth, Ellen, and Joseph suffered because of Nazi persecution. Make a list of anti-Semitic policies that were put in place in Nazi Germany during the 1930s.

(SS/LA/SR) In partners or small groups, describe a situation of bullying, racism, or discrimination you have recently seen, experienced, or read about. Brainstorm a list of ways that people can stand up for others who are being persecuted or discriminated against.
(M/SS) Take a poll of how many students in your class have experienced racism or other forms of bullying in the last month. What kind of bullying was it? Where did it take place? Graph the results.

(SS/LA/SR) Write an anti-bullying code of conduct for your classroom or school.

(FA/SR) Create an anti-bullying or anti-racism poster.

(SS/LA/SR) Find out if there are children in the world today who are suffering from persecution. Write a letter to your government or other agency and ask them to help.

Suggested Reading: “Desperate Times” and “The Night of Broken Glass” pp. 12-15

Discussion Topics

After Kristallnacht, Jews in Germany and Austria knew they were in terrible danger. Many tried to flee to other countries. Why do you think Jews were turned away almost everywhere? What would have happened if more countries had been willing to accept Jewish refugees?

Activities

(SS/M) Research which countries agreed to accept Jewish refugees in the 1930s. Make a graph showing how many refugees each country accepted. Did your home country accept any Jewish refugees?

(LA) Interview someone who has survived persecution in another country (past or present). If this is not possible, research an account of someone’s refugee experience by reading a newspaper, book, or searching the Internet. Share your findings (or personal story) with the class by writing an article or doing an oral presentation.

(SS/LA) Research how many refugees are accepted per year in your country today. What countries do they come from? What are their reasons (consider war, persecution, famine, or other problems) for leaving their home countries? Present your findings in a written or oral report, or in a chart.

Suggested Reading: “Getting Ready” and “Saying Good-bye” pp. 20-25

Discussion Topics

Imagine you had to leave your family and home and did not know when you would see them again. What would you pack? What would you leave behind? What would you say to your parents?

Activities

(FA/LA) Make a collage or list of items you would take with you. Everything must fit into one small suitcase. Create a drawing or list of the items you must leave behind. Describe how this would make you feel. Compare your lists with other students’ lists. How are they alike? How are they different?

(LA) Write a good-bye note to a family member.

(SS/LA) Bring a photograph or other possession from home and talk about its importance to you and your family.

Suggested Reading: “The Journey” pp. 26-28

Discussion Topics

The Kinder escaped a dangerous situation and were greeted by friendly people in a safe place. How did this help them? What are some ways you can welcome newcomers to your school or community?

Activities

(LA) Of the Kinder who shared their stories in this section, who do you relate to most? Why? Write your answer or share it with the class in a discussion.
(LA) Imagine you are one of the Kinder. Write a journal entry that describes your trip.

(FA/LA) Make a postcard, with a drawing on one side and a short message on the other. Write it to a friend or family member you had to leave behind.

(SS) Draw a map showing the journey of the Kinder. Or, trace their journey on a classroom wall map.

(LA) In a class discussion or in writing, describe ways that a refugee’s journey would be the same or different today.

(SS/SR) Find out about organizations or individuals in your area who help refugees settle into their new homes.

(LA/SR) In partners or small groups, brainstorm ways to welcome newcomers to your classroom or school. Choose one to do over the next week or month.

(SR) Host a multicultural day. Cook food from other countries or invite students to bring food that is important to their heritage.

Suggested Reading: "Arriving in England" pp. 29-30

Discussion Topics

Picture yourself arriving alone in a new country, where you can’t speak the language and you don’t know the people you will be living with. How do you think the Kinder felt?

Activities

(FA/LA) Create a picture or newspaper article that features the Kinder arriving at Liverpool Street Station.

(FA) Write and act out a short play of the Kinder arriving in England. Who meets them? Who helps?

(LA) Compose a welcome message to the Kinder from the mayor of London.
(SS/LA) Ask your parents about your background. Where is your family from? If they had to leave their home country, find out why. Consider writing or speaking about their experience and sharing it with the class.

(FA) Make a drawing showing something from the Kinder’s journey (for example, boys hiding from enemy fire on the SS Bodegraven; the children’s train compartment being searched by the Nazi soldiers; or the Kinder being greeted by friendly Dutch citizens).

Suggested Reading: “People Who Helped” and “The SS Bodegraven” pp. 31-35

Discussion Topics

Bertha, Nicholas, Norbert, and Truus risked their own lives to help the Kinder. Who of them do you admire the most? Why? Can you think of any equally courageous people who are alive today? What makes them brave?

Activities

(LA) Using a dictionary, look up the meaning of “courageous.”

(SS) In small groups, or as a class, make a list of people (past or present) you think are brave or courageous. Consider checking the list of people honored as “Righteous Among Nations” at Yad Vashem: www.yadvashem.org.

(SS/LA) Choose one courageous person to research. What makes him or her brave? Write a tribute or make a speech about this person.

(LA) Select a person or group of people mentioned in the book who helped the Kinder and write them a thank-you letter.

(SS/LA) Research one of the groups, such as the Society of Friends (Quakers), who helped the Kinder. Find out what work this organization does to help people today. Present your findings to the class in a written report or oral presentation.
(FA) Courageous people are often honored with a statue or other memorial. Make a drawing or a sculpture out of modeling clay to honor someone you believe is courageous.

Suggested Reading: “Life in Britain” pp. 36-38

Discussion Topics

What do you think was the most difficult aspect of the Kinders’ new life in Britain? Is there someone in your school or neighborhood who is trying to learn your language or the customs of your country? What are some ways you can help them?

Activities

(LA/SS) Make a list of problems or challenges the Kinder faced in Britain. Then make a list of problems or challenges that newcomers to your country face today. Compare them.

(FA) North America is home to people from around the world. Create a multicultural collage or mural that celebrates this.

(FA) Make a poster, flag, collage, or coat of arms that shows something about you and your heritage. As a class, display these together.

(LA/FA) Team up with someone who speaks a different language than you. Create a ten word illustrated dictionary using words from both your languages.

(LA) Learn some words and phrases in another language. Hold a conversation with one of your classmates.

Suggested Reading: “The War Years” and “After the War” pp. 39-43

Discussion Topics
After the war, many of the Kinder were the only members of their family who had survived. Put yourself in their place and imagine what feelings they would have experienced on learning this terrible news. What would it be like to have to go on without your family?

Activities

(LA/SR) Hold a class discussion about war and its effects on people and their families. How can we take steps today to prevent future wars and persecution?

(FA/LA) Look back at the paintings in the book by Hans Jackson and at the quilt squares created by the Kinder. Think about how art can communicate strong messages. Choose one of these pieces of art and describe what message you think it is communicating. Is there a strong message you'd like to communicate in art?

(LA) In your own words, explain the meaning of the Jewish saying, “Whoever saves one life saves the world entire.”

(SS) Is there a Holocaust Education Center near you? Consider inviting a Holocaust survivor to your class to speak about his or her experience.

Suggested Reading: “The Kinder Today,” “Reunions,” and “Remembering” pp. 44-50

Discussion Topics

What lessons do you think we can learn from the story of the Kindertransport? What do you think the Kinder were trying to say in their messages to you? What would you like to say to them?

Activities

(FA) Look closely at the quilt squares made by the Kinder to describe their experience. Create a similar square (using paper or fabric) that shows something meaningful about your life.
(LA) On pages 45-46, the Kinder wrote messages to you. Write a message back to one or more of the Kinder you met in this book.

(LA/FA) Write a short essay or poem, or create a piece of art that describes the most important thing you learned from the story of the Kindertransport.

(LA) Read other children's books about the Holocaust and the Kindertransport. A few examples are: Good-bye Marianne by Irene N. Watts, One Small Suitcase by Barry Turner, and Hana's Suitcase by Karen Levine. Write a book review or do a book talk on one of them.

(SS/SR) Find out about children in the world today who are suffering from discrimination, persecution, or war. Research organizations and individuals who are helping them. Send the helpers a note of support or a message asking what you can do to help.

• Hold a bake sale or other fundraiser for an organization such as Unicef or Save the Children that helps children today.
